The rush of buyers lasted till a late hour, and bundles big and little, in sturdy and in weak arms, in baskets and carts, encumbered the madly, noisy throng of men, women, boys, girls and children that moved in two resistless tides along the principal streets; and, judging by the effect of the visits to the stores, few in this vicinity but will have reason to bless St. Nicholas before Tuesday morning.

Of course men did some of the buying, but from the hurried, anxious look on their faces as they threaded their tortuous way in the crowded stores, and the compassionate looks cast on them by the young lady salesclerks, it was evident they wouldn't wish any special mention made of the fact nor of what it they bought; indeed, it is a fact worth noting, the patrons of the advertising columns of the patrons of the advertising columns of the patrons of the advertising columns of the patrons of the made the busiest appearance, and their shelves show unusual depletion even for holiday times, and Christmas trees are booked to be plentiful to-morrow night. To-day will be one of rest to the tide of shoppers and clerks, and a welcome one at that; and to-morrow will see the last last last rations; and, like all the rest, this paper wishes all a merry Christmas.

Gray Hairs

Premature gray hairs usually are the effects of carelessuess. If the scalp is kept free of dandruff and properly nourished and strengthened, gray hairs would be unusual before the age of forty or forty-five. There is no remedy in existence that will restore color to gray hairs; but the

A CHRISTMAS CAROL.

Behold! yon star so brightly beaming, Hear the angels triumphantly sing: Wise men from the east are bringing Offerings to the new-born King. Hallelujah, hallelujah, sing praises unto Him.

Hark! the bells are sweetly pealing,
Ringing in the Saviour's birth;
In a manger they have laid Him,
God with man now reigns on earth.
Hallelujah, hallelujah, sing praises unto
Him.

Glory in this blessed morning,
Hail! the long expected King;
Sons of men, lift up your voices,
Loud in anthems, let them ring.
Hallelujah, hallelujah, sing praises unic day decided to defer the funeral of Moody until Tuesday afternoon, instead of holding it on Monday as at first they intended to do. Some of the details were arranged during this afternoon and it was made known later that the family had consented that public services should be held in the Congregational Church at 2:30 o'clock. The body will lie in state at the church during the morning. Rev. C. J. Schofield, pastor of the church, will officate, assisted by Rev. R. A. Torrey, of Chicago, and addresses will be made by men who have been associated with Mr. Moody in his work.
Him.

The trustees of the Northfield Seminary met to-day and set apart a spot at Round Top as the burial place of Mr. Moody. The grave will be on school propery, but it is very near the Moody home.

A DUKE'S ECCENTRICITIES.

The papers abound in anecdotes of the late Duke. He was rather careless and shabby in his dress, and his life at Eaton hail was that of an ordinary country gentleman. At any time during his stay in Cheshire the Duke might be seen riding or walking about his park, usually smoking a cigarette, not often composed of tobacco, for he used medicated cigarettes as a remedy for asthma. To his household the Duke was always an enigma. He rarely spoke to the servants and had an odd way of leaving bits of paper about on chadre, with a word of blame as to their condition; but with such personages as his house steward, head coachman and stud groom he was on mest affable and confidential terms.

ADMIRAL DEWEY.

TIPS A CHRISTMAS GIFT TO HIS PARENTS.
(By Telegraph to Virginian-Pilot.)

Washington, Dec. 23.-Admiral Geo. Dewey will be 62 years of age Christmas day, and under the ordinary process of law would be placed on the retired list on that account. The special law under which he was advanced to the head of the navy makes no provision for his retirement, and therefore he will continue on the active list of the navy, in all probability, until his death. As a matter of fact, his retirement would make no material changes in his existing status. His pay would be the same on the retired as on the active list, and he would be entitled to the same emoluments and privileges, including a private secretary with the rank of lieutenant, and the usual number of aids. The recent death of Lieutenant Brumby leaves a vacancy on his staff, for which there is considerable friendly competition among the young officers of the navy.

Admiral Dewey and Mrs. Dewey spent some time at the Navy Department to-day visiting friends in the various bureaus. cess of law would be placed on the re-
